“ When we were together as a family, I remember my dad and Uncle Doyle teasing Aunt Betty to a point until she was mad at them. They would laugh and then give her a hug. The three of them together was how they grew up and how they lived. Daddy always spoke of taking care of Doyle and Betty as they grew up. I just remember him being there to support and do what he could for anyone. Even when daddy died he gave me a hug and comforted me. July 23rd was daddy's birthday. Guess Doyle wanted to be at the party. I know he is at peace and the family is celebrating being together again. They will watch over us and make sure we are all cared for like they always have. Thank you so much. Wish I could be there with you my precious family. I love you. May God Bless.

“ I don't know how many times I would wreck my bike outside Nana and Doyle's house but here would come Doyle to carry me in and clean up my scraped knees. He'd set me on the counter and get me cleaned up and put a band-aide on. Of course, I would be crying and he would just laugh and say "oh stop it, you'll be ok". While these next few days will be hard, I know I will have an angel looking down on me saying "oh stop it, you'll be ok". Love you Doyle!
