“ When I think of my brother I don't think of the fighter or the partier you guys all know. I see my brother who pushed me into the pool. I see him helping me up when I fell. Giving me rides on his bike. Teaching me how to throw a football. How to hit a baseball. The lectures of staying away from boys. Not letting me go to the parties. Not letting me do nothing. He was my big brother always watching me. Walking me home from school, helping me pick out the best shoes so I could be cool. Always hitting on my friends. I will miss him very much. The teasing the stupid jokes. I love you may you watch over us. RIP

“ I will forever remember my cousin as always being a goofball and joker who was either playing pranks and scaring us, or making us laugh until our cheeks would hurt and tears would fill our eyes. He had a beautiful heart and always backed up his family and friends. His sweet soul will live on through our precious memories of Javier, "Chapo" aka Scrappy. Regardless, at the end of every day, he was loved dearly by many of us and nothing will ever change that. May he rest in peace.
