“ My name is Lori (Torske) Wolf. My father Don was one of Cindy's older brothers. Then I was growing up in Wymore, NE Cindy, Judy, and Maggie would come spend part of the summers at our house. It was great having them because they would take us swimming and to the park to play. Cindy is only five years older than I'm so we talked a lot growing up about different things. Cindy was great on listening to any problems you had and gave advice, some times good, some times questionable. As I grew up I also got to spend some summers out at Grandma and Grandpa Torske's house with Cindy there as the babysitter. I can remember one summer Cindy, Tim (also a brother to Cindy's), Darla (my sister), and myself where having a water fight out in the yard. Darla and I ran in the house when Tim and Cindy grabbed the garden hose and started spraying us. That didn't stop them from using the hose they opened the window to the dinning room and started shooting the water into the house. Then Grandma came home we were all cleaning up the water on the dinning room floor. When Grandma asked what had happen Cindy said that the kitchen sink had over run. I got to where I would text Cindy once in a while to check up on her, see how things were going. Cindy always said things were good. I will miss checking in with her. Heaven has gained an angel but we have lost a great aunt and friend. Until we meet again. With all my love, Lori Wolf.

“ My name is Penny (Hall) Lattimer. My mother is Cindy's older sister, one of them, Shirley (Torske) Hall. Cindy left Nebraska and came out to Idaho to live with our family right after she turned 18. She was just like my big sister. I was 12 yrs. old when she moved into our house. She was so much fun. She always was joking, laughing, and smiling. She had a beautiful baby blue T-Bird convertible car and she loved to drive it. She would take my mom, brother, sister, and me swimming on the weekends to a place called: Lucky Peak Reservoir. We would pack sodas, a huge lunch, beach blankets, towels, etc. We would spend all day at Lucky Peak just swimming and soaking up sun rays. It was so much fun. Cindy was always there for me to listen and give advice whenever I needed it. I will miss calling her or having her call me and say to me "Hey girl how ya doing?" We could talk and laugh forever. I already miss her. The world was a happier place because of Cindy McFarland. I was lucky to have a special place in her life. With much love. Cindy's niece, Penny Lattimer
