“ Roy was a man I was truly blessed to have met. A true man among men who had an amazing sense of humor and could comand a room full of people with with meaningful conversation. He always had pearls of wisdom to give and put family first. I always enjoyed talking to him knowing that out conversation would include a handful of quick-witted one liners that would have me laughing. Even watching television shows with him was hilarious hearing his commentary on just about anything. Anyone could benefit from him sharing his life experiences of which he had many that a vast majority of people could not say the same. The world is a better place because Roy was blessed with him and he will be dearly missed.
